

Today
$200 for Marie Curie
"No Trade Union Rule"
A Pension for Presidents
Prosperous New York
by Arthur Brisbane

U. S. GOVERNMENT WEATHER FORECAST
Change today.
Max. 65, min. 45, wind S.W.
High 74 at 10 a. m., 81 p. m.
Temperature at midnight 50, at 6 a.
m. 46, average 64.
Light air, variable, light at 6 a. m.

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

BOSTON, MONDAY, APRIL 18, 1921

10-P.M. EDITION
PRICE THREE CENTS

CHARLESTOWN WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO

CHARLEY LOUD WAS CLUBBED

Wounds on Head Caused by Patrolman's Stick

SITUATION OVER TENSE

Text of Note Given Out by State Department Shows Japan's Tone Curt

Washington, April 18.—The tenor of the situation existing between the United States and Japan over the Island of Yap was revealed officially for the first time today when the State Department made public the entire correspondence between the two governments, consisting of three American and two Japanese notes exchanged during the last six months.

This correspondence, which is distinctly curt in tone, reveals that each government has stood solidly on its original position. Indeed, the last communication from Japan, under date of February 21, is rather sharp in tone and, in fact, inclines to be somewhat truculent.

"AT VARIANCE WITH FACTS"
The gist of the thesis advanced in the American note of December 5 last, is referred to in the Japanese reply of February 19 as "extraneous and unreasonable, in which no one would be likely to concur." Another line of argument pursued in the same American note leads to a conclusion which the Japanese government characterizes as "wholly at variance with the facts and cannot be thought by anyone to be convincing."

The note of the State Department, which is a reply to the Japanese note of February 19, is a long and carefully worded document, and is signed by the Secretary of State, Hughes. It is a masterpiece of diplomatic skill, and is a masterpiece of diplomatic skill, and is a masterpiece of diplomatic skill.

Jingle Bells Jingle Bells
It looks right now as if Paul Revere would have to hire a pung to make his famous ride to Lexington.

MAY RETURN TO WIFE NO. 1
Who Flew From Strange Marital Triangle

NEW YORK, April 18.—Robert Andrews, James C. City's "rebellious husband," and Mrs. Maude Andrews, his first wife, may be reconciled after all, according to indications today.

Andrews, who has been in New York in pursuit of wife No. 2, Mrs. Esther Andrews, the slim blonde who shared the apartment and the husband with Mrs. Maude Andrews since last January.

PREDICTS END OF LABOR TROUBLES ON RAILROADS
The recent Federal arbitration of the national shop craft agreement, which was a triumph for the labor side, is a triumph for the labor side, and is a triumph for the labor side.

CHARLESTOWN WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO
Louise Morris, 32 years old, of 503A Main street, Charlestown, died on the way to the Relief Hospital from injuries received by being struck by an automobile owned by George W. Cronin of 209 Cedar street, Somerville, and driven by Francis E. Cronin, while crossing front of 570 street, Charlestown, today Cronin was held on a technical charge of manslaughter.

TROOPS ARE CALLED TO COLORS

Lille Danesmen Summoned as France Prepares to Make Germans Pay Indemnity

London, April 18.—Preston Lloyd, a member of the House of Commons, has announced that the British government is preparing to call up the reserves of the British army.

REPORT IRISH GIRL KILLED AS SPY
London, April 18.—A Central News agency from Monaghan says that a young girl, Mary Carroll, thirty years of age, was killed by a bullet from a German airplane while she was working in a field near the town of Monaghan.

GIRL HELD FOR MURDER OF BABY FOUND IN TREE
Mary E. Clark, twenty years old, formerly of Beverly, was arrested in the town of Beverly today, charged with the murder of her infant son, whose body was found in the trunk of a hollow tree. The young woman produced no entry and was held without bail for a hearing on Friday.

THREE MURDER WITNESSES QUESTIONED
District Attorney Tufts examined three witnesses at East Cambridge today in connection with the Wakefield murder mystery. They were Frank Fernald, Carlton Studley and a man named Shields.

Girl Witness in Probe

First published photograph of Dorothy Smith, the twenty-three-year-old Cambridge girl grilled by the authorities in connection with the murder of James A. Preston.

FAIR AND WARMER FOR PATRIOTS' DAY
And that's just what the main is going to do according to the local weather man. He says the indications are that Patriots' Day, tomorrow, will be bright and sunny, as well as considerably warmer.

COST OF FOOD CUT 1 PER CENT. IN MARCH
Washington, April 18.—The cost of food to the average family declined 1 per cent in March, as compared with February, according to a report by the Bureau of Labor statistics today.

HOME BEAUTIFUL EXPOSITION NOW OPEN
MECHANICS BUILDING
Greatest Exhibition Ever Held Entirely Devoted to the Home
Admission Including 55c
UNDER PERSONAL DIRECTION OF CHESTER L. CAMPBELL

REGARD BRUISES AS IMPORTANT CLUE

Marks on Clarence W. Loud's forehead and back of the head will play a prominent part in the government's case against him on the charge of killing Patrolman James A. Preston on Lowell street, Wakefield, Saturday night, April 9.

That these marks were made by a policeman's club is the assertion of the authorities. Police Chief George E. Kerr of the Melrose police today admitted that there was talk along that line when Loud was questioned at the Melrose police station at 1 a. m. Sunday, April 10.

Asked to describe the marks on Loud's head, Police Chief Kerr said: "There was an abrasion to the right of the upper forehead and a mark to the left side. There was a lump on the back of his head similar to those made by a policeman's club."

200 BUILDING STRIKERS TO BE SENT OUT OF HUB
E. A. Johnson, secretary of the United Building Trades union, has announced that he has received a communication from the city of Boston, asking him to send a number of his men out of the city.

TOMORROW PATRIOTS' DAY
Special patriotic souvenir edition of the Boston American in colors. All regular editions will be printed. All the sport news. All the world news. All the news of the Preston murder mystery. Great patriotic edition in colors. GET TOMORROW'S BOSTON AMERICAN

DEBATES DURING THE ELECTORAL ACTS, SAY FEDERAL EXPERTS

Answers Given to President Harding's Queries on High Cost of Living

Washington, April 18.—President Harding's efforts for explanation of the existing high cost of living debate, which has been the subject of a Federal Trade Commission report, are being answered by the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, in a series of statements issued today.

"Following the diversified condition of the world's affairs, changes in values are inevitable and monetary conditions will be more variable than in the past," the Federal Reserve Board states. "The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in its report, states that the high cost of living is the result of a combination of factors, including the increase in the cost of raw materials, the increase in the cost of transportation, and the increase in the cost of labor."

"The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, in its report, states that the high cost of living is the result of a combination of factors, including the increase in the cost of raw materials, the increase in the cost of transportation, and the increase in the cost of labor."

"The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in its report, states that the high cost of living is the result of a combination of factors, including the increase in the cost of raw materials, the increase in the cost of transportation, and the increase in the cost of labor."

"The Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, in its report, states that the high cost of living is the result of a combination of factors, including the increase in the cost of raw materials, the increase in the cost of transportation, and the increase in the cost of labor."

CARDINAL? ARCHBISHOP? SICKNESS CURE

Paris, April 18.—Complete cure of Cardinal Mercier's (Belgian) rheumatism, following an injection of a new serum, is reported by Professor C. Lavigne and Dr. J. L. de la Motte of the Pasteur Institute.

Archbishop of Reims, April 18.—Most Rev. John Joseph Brennan, Archbishop of Reims, is reported to be the most likely successor to the late Cardinal Gibbons as Archbishop of Baltimore, according to reports in circulation at the Vatican.

Mere Trifle, Why Fret? $35,000 Necklace Lost

New York, April 18.—Of course it is a small matter, but now that she has been reminded of it, Miss Barbara H. Guggenheim, No. 270 Park avenue, recalls the incident. It must have happened last Tuesday.

She was very busy last Tuesday. She knew she was engaged to spend the day with her mother, and she was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready.

She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready.

She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready. She was in a hurry to get ready.

D'Annunzio Made Own Quick Divorce Law

Paris, April 18.—With unhappy husbands and wives rushing from all parts of Europe, Fiume has become the European Reno following the enactment of D'Annunzio's "divorce-what-you-will" law.

Under this law the post-humous divorce, after trying in vain elsewhere for thirty-five years, is made possible. It is a divorce which is made possible by the enactment of D'Annunzio's "divorce-what-you-will" law.

McMenamin Wears Hurdling Election Bet

Washington, April 18.—Walter L. McMenamin, who today appeared on Pennsylvania avenue with a brand new hat, is a member of the House of Representatives.

McMenamin, who today appeared on Pennsylvania avenue with a brand new hat, is a member of the House of Representatives. He is a member of the House of Representatives.

McMenamin, who today appeared on Pennsylvania avenue with a brand new hat, is a member of the House of Representatives. He is a member of the House of Representatives.

McMenamin, who today appeared on Pennsylvania avenue with a brand new hat, is a member of the House of Representatives. He is a member of the House of Representatives.

LOCAL-BREVITIES

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

Public services for A. L. Shaver of New York, who died last week, will be held at the home of his wife, Mrs. Shaver, at 100 West 10th street, New York, on Tuesday, April 19, at 2 o'clock.

CHANGES IN PASTOR'S MIND CONCLAVE OPENS

Parade of 40,000 Welcomes Convention of 5,000 Delegates at Chicago

Chicago, April 18.—Just as John W. O'Connell, New York, presided today at the opening of the first convention of the American Association for the Advancement of the Irish Republic, a parade of 40,000 people welcomed the convention of 5,000 delegates at Chicago.

Chicago, April 18.—Just as John W. O'Connell, New York, presided today at the opening of the first convention of the American Association for the Advancement of the Irish Republic, a parade of 40,000 people welcomed the convention of 5,000 delegates at Chicago.

Chicago, April 18.—Just as John W. O'Connell, New York, presided today at the opening of the first convention of the American Association for the Advancement of the Irish Republic, a parade of 40,000 people welcomed the convention of 5,000 delegates at Chicago.

Chicago, April 18.—Just as John W. O'Connell, New York, presided today at the opening of the first convention of the American Association for the Advancement of the Irish Republic, a parade of 40,000 people welcomed the convention of 5,000 delegates at Chicago.

Chicago, April 18.—Just as John W. O'Connell, New York, presided today at the opening of the first convention of the American Association for the Advancement of the Irish Republic, a parade of 40,000 people welcomed the convention of 5,000 delegates at Chicago.

WEDDING RINGS

$4.18 to $22-Karat Gold

$4.00 to $5.00

Richards

JEWELRY SHOP 25 YEARS

803 Washington Street

On Account of a Fire

In the top story of the Phillips Building, last Friday night, we have met with a serious water damage, due to flood by the Sprinkler System.

Our stock and fixtures prevent our doing business; consequently we shall be closed until Wednesday morning, April 20th.

CHANDLER & BARBER CO.

HARDWARE

124 SUMMER ST., BOSTON

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Sturdy American, Loyal Citizen, Affectionate Father, and pre-eminently a sportsman of dauntless courage and nerve—should be made a legal holiday—a sincere, significant holiday, throughout the United States.

Anyone having information as to any location of the rights of the Noble Company anywhere will confer a valuable favor on the makers of the statue by communicating immediately with F. M. Archer, 100 Haverhill St., Boston, Mass.

—New York—Boston
Philadelphia
Springfield—Framingham

How Boston American Started Fight for Disabled War Veterans Two Years Ago

Nearly two years ago the Hearst papers performed a great service to the country when they told the startling story of the government's abuse and neglect of disabled veterans of the World War.

The facts were gathered and the story was written by a member of the Boston American staff, who had devoted seven months to a study of the work of the War Risk Bureau, the Federal Board for Vocational Education and the United States Public Health Service, the three agencies of the Federal government having charge of the rehabilitation of sick and maimed soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses.

These agencies were blamed for their shortcomings—their stupid, unwieldy systems, their red-tape methods, their lack of grasp and vision, their ungenerous providing of benefits conferred by legislation and their general habits of operating in ways that tended to discourage rather than to encourage the belief that the American people were grateful to their disabled heroes.

Congress did not escape criticism for its niggardly policy in the realm of beneficial legislation. The blame was not wholly for the administrative agencies, because, until quite recently, Congress has followed lines of slow progress and false economy, and has been conservative to the point of stinginess in dealing with a tremendous problem of human conservation that called for quick and liberal appropriations.

The first telling of this story of the disabled by Hearst papers met with the usual reception. To some it was so shocking as to be unbelievable. Others dismissed it as a newspaper sensation. But the great majority believed and soon Congress began to hear from the people.

The facts adduced in these stories were never controverted. They could not be for they were the truth. Reforms outlined have been adopted. Benefits that have come to the disabled, as a result of those exposures and recommendations by the Hearst papers, have been many and timely and splendid.

President Harding has received evidence of the complete justification of those stories. It has come to him from a special commission of his own appointing.

Not all that the Hearst papers advised in the way of proper consideration of the needs of the disabled has been done, but the report of the commission is a plain declaration that further delay in building the right kind and required number of hospitals, and the continued failure to co-ordinate the functions of the three agencies into a simple process of helpfulness for the disabled, would be criminal.

These demands were voiced first two years ago by the Hearst papers of Boston and echoed by the other members of the Hearst newspaper family. They were an appeal to millions of patriotic Americans.

As charged, they WERE sensational. But they were based upon TRUTH. Now has come the vindication. That matters nothing if only there be haste now to make amends for the neglect.

The Eagle Screams Even in Far-Off Australia

The two most masterful personalities at the Peace Conference, apart from Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Wilson, were General Jan Smuts, Premier of South Africa, and Premier Hughes of Australia.

General Smuts, upon his return to his home Parliament, frankly admitted that there were indefensible features in the Treaty of Versailles. He publicly said in Parliament:

I do not ask you to approve it. I only ask you to ratify it. Premier Hughes, in opening the Australian Parliament recently, declared that there must be no renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty except upon terms entirely satisfactory to the United States. He continued:

While making every effort to retain the friendship of Japan, we must not make an enemy of the United States, nor must we be deceived. It is an unwieldy, clumsy contrivance. Yet, because there is so desirable and war so useful, all civilized nations ought to do all things possible to prevent it.

What do the Japanese want? They want to hold land in America and the right to enter the United States. The attitude of Australia on this question is very much like that of the people of the Western States of America toward Japan. It is utterly wrong for the Japanese to say that we regard them as our inferiors. On the contrary, we recognize their bravery, their patriotism, their intelligence and magnificent achievements, unopposed so far in so short a time. But, as I had the honor of telling Japan's delegates at the Peace Conference, while we consider the Japanese the equals of ourselves, we do not desire to mix our races any more than they do.

The spirit and point of view of Canada and Australia is that of the American people on this question.

A Trained Navy Secretary

The worth of a Cabinet officer to the nation depends very greatly upon the extent to which the President permits him to exercise such faculties as he may possess.

Mr. Wilson made his Cabinet officers executive chief clerks highly paid to do only what he told them to do.

Mr. Harding has evidently tried to get some men who know more than he does about some things, with the hope that they may add to his success.

The new Secretary of the Navy is a case in point. There is nothing of the Sir Joseph Porter about Denby. His store of naval information is various and exact, and was obtained by the difficult method of being himself a "gob" at the time of the Spanish-American War, and taking up the duties of a sergeant of marines in the recent World War. The latter post is no mean station. A well-known American soldier of fortune—"Johnny Fox," the famous Princeton athlete—being offered promotion from the ranks of the "devil-dogs" to a sergeant, shook his head vigorously.

"Not for me!" he said. "A captain perhaps, or even a major, general I might get away with, but, you see, a sergeant of marines has got to know his business!"

The new Secretary of the Navy knows the business of the "gob" and of the "leatherneck" from personal experience.

Love Thy Neighbor

Good Morning, Officer! By T. E. Powers

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

